Community EO leaders host Women's Equality Day event

Story by Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute

August 26th marks the anniversary of the Women's Suffrage Movement's GREATEST victory women achieving full voting rights following the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The women's suffrage movement began in 1848, when the first women's rights convention was held in Seneca Falls, New York, led by Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

The 19th Amendment was finally proposed to Congress on June 14, 1919. The amendment could not become law without the ratification by a minimum of 36 of the 48 states. On August 26, 1920, Tennessee became the 36th state to vote "yay," ratifying the 19th Amendment into law.

The passage of the 19th Amendment is a testament to the courage and tenacity of the women—and men—who challenged the nation to live up to its founding principles. The legacy of brave women who served, and continue to serve, our nation and the Department of Defense, further inspire us to strive for liberty and equality for all Americans.

On August 21, 2015, for the first time in its more than 65-year history, two women, Captain Kristen Griest and First Lieutenant Shaye Harver, graduated from the grueling 62-day Army Ranger course and earned the coveted Ranger tab. Less than two months later, 37-year-old mother and engineer Major Lisa Jaster was the first Army Reservist to earn her Ranger tab.

In April this year, Air Force General Lori Robinson was approved by the Senate as commander of the U.S. Northern Command, becoming the country's first female combatant commander.

In May of 2016, the Navy's highest-ranking female officer, Admiral Michelle Howard, was nominated by President Barack Obama to lead U.S. Naval Forces Europe-Africa.

The Marine Corps graduated its first female artillery officers: Second Lieutenants Virginia Brodie and Katherine Boy at the Field Artillery Basic Officers Leadership Course on May 12, 2016.

In the 96 years since the 19th Amendment was ratified, women have made strides in every facet of American life. We have learned that our country succeeds when women succeed.

To mark the anniversary of the Women's Suffrage Movement, U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart Equal Opportunity office and community equal opportunity leaders are hosting a Women's Equality Day event, Aug.

26 from noon to 1:30 p.m. at the Patch Community Club on Patch Barracks. This year's theme is "Celebrating Women's Right to Vote" and includes a special performance by Marine Corps. Sgt. Deidra L. Freeman.

As summer draws to an end, children are beginning to switch their focus from swimming, camping and other fun outdoor recreational activities to heading back to school.

While some children will be enrolled in school for the first time, other “veterans” will be looking forward to progressing to the next grade and all the new challenges, teachers and friends that come with it. This is also a crucial time for parents to think about the well-being of their children and develop strategies to get them back and forth to school safely each day. The following are some tips to make your children’s trips to and from school safe whether they walk, bicycle, ride the school bus or travel by automobile.

Walking

It’s particularly important to walk with your child or, when you decide they’re old enough and mature enough to do so safely, allow them to travel with friends. Instruct your child to stay away from parks, vacant lots and other places where they might become isolated and an easy target for a predator.

Carefully research the route your child will travel to school, looking for well-trained adult crossing guards at each intersection. The route should be the most direct one from home to school. Make sure your child understands the importance of obeying all traffic signals and following the instructions of the crossing guards. Also, instruct your child to avoid strangers and never accept rides or engage in conversation with people unknown to your family. Ensure your child wears brightly colored clothing to help motorists see them.

Bicycling

The majority of rules regarding walking also apply to children who ride their bikes to school. Ensure your child always wears a bicycle helmet that meets U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Snell, American National Standards Institute or American Society for Testing and Materials safety standards. Also, make sure your child’s clothing is appropriate for biking. Avoid ill-fitting clothing that can become tangled in spokes or pedals or inhibit the child’s movement while riding.

Riding the bus

Ensure your child arrives at the bus stop early and instructs them not to play in the street while waiting for the bus to arrive. Your child should understand the importance of waiting for the bus to come to a complete stop before approaching the street. Also, warn them to watch for other vehicles near the bus stop.

Once aboard, children should remain seated at all times and keep their head and arms inside the bus. When exiting, they should use the hand-rail to avoid falling. Wait for a signal from the bus driver before crossing the street. Walk at least 10 steps away from the front of the bus so the driver can see you. Never cross the street or play behind the school bus. After getting off the bus, move immediately onto the sidewalk and out of traffic. If there is no sidewalk, try to stay as far to the side of the road as possible.

Traveling by automobile

All occupants should have their seat belts securely fastened. Small children should be secured in a car seat that is appropriate for their age and size. Drivers should be careful around children who are walking or riding bicycles to school and comply with the posted speed limit. Remember that children often engage in horseplay and can sometimes run into the road, unaware of the vehicles around them.

Once at home

Another important consideration is protecting children who will be by themselves when they arrive at home each day. The most important ground rules parents need to establish for these children are:

- Establish a check-in time. Once a child arrives home each afternoon, the first thing they should do is phone a parent and let them know they’re at home and everything is OK.
- Security. Children should be instructed to keep doors shut and locked at all times. They should also be given clear guidelines of what they can and can’t do. For example, children should not try to use the stove, as they can be burned or start a fire.

A final consideration is for those children wearing backpacks to school. Recent studies show that backpacks are often overloaded, causing an unnatural compression of the spine as the child compensates for the weight by bending forward or walking with an arched back. This can result in injuries that might last a lifetime. A solution is to limit items in the backpack to only those necessary for class work. Additionally, items placed in the backpack should be evenly distributed, and the backpack should be equipped with features such as padded straps. Some backpacks are now equipped with wheels and towing handles for convenience.

School should be a fun and exciting time for children. Following these tips and precautions will help make it a safe time as well.

Because of the large number of buses, students, and school activities each day, school-time safety should not be neglected.

So remember, as we enter into a new school year, you can help assure the safety of our children by following these simple guidelines.

Life Insurance open season; first since 2004

Office of Personnel Management has announced open season for the Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance (FEGLI). The FEGLI Open Season is from September 1, 2016 through September 30, 2016. — Photo by Monika Wisniewska / Shutterstock

Story by Office of Personnel Management

For the first time in 12 years, the Office of Personnel Management, (OPM), has announced open season for the Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance, (FEGLI).

This is the first FEGLI Open Season since 2004 and will be open Season is from September 1, 2016 through September 30, 2016.

During the month of September, if you are a Federal employee eligible for FEGLI, you can elect any coverage that FEGLI offers, including Option C coverage on the lives of your eligible family members.

Employees who are in their first 12 months of workers' compensation are also eligible but they must meet pay and duty status requirements before their coverage can come into effect.

You do not need to be currently enrolled in FEGLI to elect coverage during the Open Season. Open Season elections have no medical exam required and no health questions to answer.

Elections made during the FEGLI Open Season have a one-year delayed effective date.

Coverage you elect in the September 2016 FEGLI Open Season will be effective on the first day of the first full pay period on or after October 1, 2017, as long as you meet pay and duty status requirements.

For most biweekly employees, this means your coverage will be effective on October 1, 2017. For most Postal employees, this means your coverage will be effective on October 14, 2017.

Your new premiums will be effective when your new coverage is effective. You will not pay your new premiums during the one-year waiting period.

The FEGLI Open Season is for FEGLI-eligible employees and qualifying compensationers only.

Annuitants are not eligible to make FEGLI Open Season elections. By law, annuitants are never allowed to elect or increase their FEGLI life insurance coverage, even during an Open Season. Like employees, annuitants can cancel or reduce FEGLI coverage at any time unless assigned.

Making Your FEGLI Open Season Election

There is no special election form to use during the FEGLI Open Season.

You make your Open Season election using the existing FEGLI election form, Standard Form SF 2817, or its electronic equivalent if your agency offers one. Submit your election to your agency's human resources office.

If you submit your election by hand or electronically, be sure to indicate to your agency that this is an Open Season election. If your agency uses a shared service center or if you submit your election by mail, your agency may have a cover letter for you to attach to show that yours is an Open Season election.

Your agency will give you a copy of your election as proof of receipt. Your agency will give you another copy of the election when your coverage becomes effective after you meet pay and duty status requirements.

Be sure to elect ALL the FEGLI coverage that you want on your Open Season election, not just the coverage you want to add or increase. Any coverage you do not elect is waived or cancelled.

If you like your current FEGLI coverage, you do not need to take any action during the Open Season. If you do nothing during the FEGLI Open Season, you will keep your existing election. You are not required to re-elect your coverage.

Retiring after the FEGLI Open Season

All regular rules still apply for continuing FEGLI into retirement.

This includes the requirement that for any types or multiples of coverage you wish to bring into retirement, you must have that coverage throughout your last five years of Federal service, or your entire period or periods of service if you retire with less than five years.

Because coverage elected during the FEGLI Open Season will be effective no sooner than October 2017, this means that if you want to bring your Open Season coverage into retirement, you must retire in October 2022 or later, five years after the coverage becomes effective.

If you plan to retire before October 2022, consider this when deciding whether to elect coverage during the FEGLI Open Season. By law, there are no waivers for the five-year rule under the FEGLI Program.

For more information, view the Office of Personnel Management video overview of the September 2016 FEGLI Life Insurance Open Season.

"Hands of Stone" follows the life of Roberto Duran, the Panamanian fighter who made his professional debut in 1968 as a 16 year-old and retired in 2002 at the age of 50. In June 1980, he defeated Sugar Ray Leonard to capture the WBC welterweight title, but shocked the boxing world by returning to his corner in their November rematch, famously saying the words "no mas" (no more.)

Stuttgart Girl Scouts experience magic at summer camp

Story by Holly DeCarlo-White
USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs Office

With more than 400 members, the Stuttgart Girl Scouts are U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart's largest girls-only leadership development program reaching out to girls ages 5 to 17.

This summer, a Harry Potter-themed "Magical Adventures in Scouting" camp was held Aug. 8-12 in Böblingen. More than 100 Stuttgart Girl Scouts and adult volunteers participated in the camp that was open to ages 6-14.

The camp is an example of the many programs that fall under Stuttgart Girl Scouts' STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) initiative, which offers girl-led, girl-centered activities to help develop confidence in the above mentioned skills. According to the official website, these types of programs intend to help girls discover themselves, their values, connect with others, build healthy relationships, and take action to make the world a better place.

Attributing to this year's theme, the scouts competed in games of Quidditch and learned other magical tricks-of-the-trade throughout the camp: care of magical creatures, broom flying, herbology, potions, magical instruments, and defense against the "Dark Arts." These activities were intended for scouts to learn about various aspects of nature including wasps and bees, the dangers of stinging nettles, GPS reading, and even dissecting owl pellets. Scouts spent time outdoors on nature hikes, treasure hunts, and much more.

"A little bit of wind and rain, as well as an unexpected visit from a wild boar couldn't keep us from having lots of fun exploring the woods, playing and singing with friends, and learning about the responsibilities of being a Girl Scout," said Marlieke Eaton, troop leader and committee member of Stuttgart Girl Scouts Overseas.

"This camp gives girls an opportunity to take on challenges, connect with old and new friends, and have fun," she added.

Shelby Hensley, 14, participated in the camp as a counselor for the second time this year. Students can apply to be a counselor after completing the 6th grade.

"I loved it," exclaimed Hensley when asked about her time at the camp. "Being a part of the Girl Scouts is a great way to be taught how to be a leader, and I got the chance to connect more with the other younger girls."

In addition to working with girls of all ages and learning leadership skills, counselors participate in each of the camp activities, too.

"Learning about science (herbology), was my favorite part. We got to watch different chemical reactions, and learn about plants and nature," Hensley said.

Fleur Eaton, 9, said she enjoyed the potions activity, learning to mix and measure ingredients from recipes, the most. "There were three potions we could pick from: underwater, flying and visibility. We mixed it up and even got to drink it."

"We also did 'transfiguration' in arts and crafts. We used Popsicle sticks, wool and yarn, then weaved it together," Eaton said.

The camp was organized solely by volunteers of the Stuttgart military community, who teamed up to make it a huge success and memorable event for the scouts.

About the Girl Scouts of the USA

Members of the Stuttgart Girl Scouts belong to the national organization of the Girl Scouts of the USA, which is 2.8 million members strong—2 million girls and 800,000 adults who believe girls can change the world. It began over 100 years ago with one woman, Girl Scouts' founder Juliette Gordon "Daisy" Low, who believed in the power of every girl. She organized the first Girl Scout troop on March 12, 1912, in Savannah, Georgia, and every year since, Scouts aim to make her vision a reality, helping girls discover their strengths, passions, and talents. Today, as yesterday, the Girl Scout mission of building girls of courage, confidence, and character who make the world a better place, continues. Girl scouts are the preeminent leadership development organization for girls. And with programs for girls from coast to coast and across the globe, Girl Scouts offers every girl a chance to do something amazing. To volunteer, reconnect, or join, visit www.girlscouts.org.

'Wine in the city:' Swabian delicacies galore during 12-day fest

Annually, Baden-Württemberg's centuries-old wine tradition is celebrated during the "Stuttgarter Weindorf," or wine village, from Aug. 24 to Sept. 4 in the downtown area.

This year, the wine village, which is also considered Germany's most charming wine fest, will celebrate its 40th anniversary (1976-2016).

The middle Neckar region has always been known for cultivating fine wines, ranging from Trollinger red to white Riesling to rosé Schiller wines. Some think that the Romans planted the first grapevines in Bad Cannstatt more than 2,000 years ago when settling along the Neckar River. Others believe that monks cultivated wine in the region.

All that's known factually is based on a historic document from 1108 stating that a monk named Ulrich presented the Blaubeuren Monastery with wine hills in Stuttgart.

According to legend, there was more wine than water in Stuttgart during the 14th century, which resulted in Swabia adopting wine as the national drink.

"The Weindorf is a fest that focuses not solely on wine, but on Swabian cuisine to fully experience the Swabian way of life. It's a fest for all generations. People come together for quality foods, good conversation, a glass of wine and a swell time," said Axel Grau, the Pro Stuttgart Verkehrsverein managing director.

"It's the variety of things offered throughout the fest that make it one of the most popular wine fests throughout Germany," he added.

Every year, new, quality wines are featured. Among those are the "Trollinger," a light and pleasant red wine, and one of the most popular wine of the Württemberg region. For a stronger red wine, Grau recommends "Lemberger," and "Riesling" and "Kerner" white wines.

After buying the first glass of wine, a visitor can use the glass to sample wine throughout the fest and keep it as a souvenir.

Wine and food were meant for each other, and the wine village offers both.

More than 500 wines from the Württemberg and Baden regions can be accompanied with traditional Swabian dishes such as "Maultaschen" (meat and vegetable-stuffed noodles),

"Zwiebelrostbraten" (roast beef with sautéed onions) and "Bubaspitzle" (potato noodles mainly served with sauerkraut). Only quality and freshly-made food from the region will be offered at the fest, according to Grau.

The menus throughout the various booths will also be available in English.

The Weindorf also offers patrons the chance to get to know downtown Stuttgart a little better and become familiar with a few of its most notable sights.

The fest spans from the Marktplatz square to Kirchstrasse and the Schillerplatz square. Here, the statue of the famous Swabian poet, Friedrich Schiller, oversees the wine fest. Some people say that the light-bodied Schiller rosé wine is named after him.

The Schillerplatz is framed by several historic buildings, to include Stuttgart's old castle, the old chancellery, the prince's building and the "Stiftskirche," or collegiate church. The church is Stuttgart's oldest Protestant church and the only monument dating back to the Staufener era, making it the city's most significant landmark.

Another landmark in the square is the "Fruchtkasten" building. During the Middle Ages, the building was a storage hall for grain and also housed a wine press. Today, the State Museum Württemberg's musical instrument collection is displayed there.

The fest is open daily from 11:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday, and from 11:30 a.m. until midnight Thursday through Saturday.

Visitors should stop by the "Infolaube" information booth at Dorotheenstrasse (adjacent to Stuttgart's Markthalle) for information and special offers. Here, patrons travelling to the Weindorf with a Verkehrs-und Tarifverbund Stuttgart (VVS) public transportation ticket will receive a €5 voucher Aug. 28 and Sept. 4 to cash when purchasing food and beverages at any booth for €10 or more.

Family days on Aug. 28 and Sept. 4 will feature face painting and live music.

Guided walking tours of the Weindorf in English can be booked by calling civ. 0711-67445750.

The official opening of the Weindorf will be held Aug. 24 at 5 p.m. in the courtyard of Stuttgart's Old Castle (Side entrance "Planie" across from the New Palace, 70173 Stuttgart).

For more information in English, visit www.stuttgarter-weindorf.de

Visitors to the Stuttgarter "Weindorf," or wine village, enjoy wine, Swabian food and good company during last year's event. This year's Weindorf will be held Aug. 24 to Sept. 4.

Lentils with "Spätzle," or egg noodles, and "Saitenwürschtle," or sausages, are some of the many Swabian dishes offered at the Stuttgarter "Weindorf," or wine village.

U.S. Africa Command staff and their families gathered at Kelley Barracks Aug. 12 for a day of fun, camaraderie, and competition during the sixth annual AFRICOM Olympics.

Competitors from throughout the AFRICOM staff directorates, U.S. Marine Corps Forces Africa, and Special Operations Command Africa, took part in the games, which ranged from flag football to dodgeball.

"The AFRICOM Olympics is an opportunity for the entire command to get together and work on things like teamwork and some physical fitness and really just have fun and build esprit de corps," said Sgt. Maj. Jeffery Stitzel, AFRICOM acting command senior enlisted leader.

The event also brings together employees who may not have met previously.

“It’s a great chance to network,” Stitzel said. Often employees know everyone in their own directorate but the AFRICOM Olympics is a chance to meet new people at the command.

It also provided a chance for employees to spend time with their families.

“School starts in a couple of weeks in the Stuttgart area,” Stitzel said. “What a great way for parents to spend some time with kids out here doing something fun with other members of the command.”

For the third straight year, MARFORAF took home the commander’s cup. SOCAF was second place and the AFRICOM J2 placed third. The Spirit Award went to the J4/6 team.
