U.S. Army Europe Public Affairs Office

US. Army Europe's new commanding general arrived in theater and assumed command of USAREUR Dec. 1.

Lt. Gen. Donald Campbell Jr., now USAREUR's 38th commander, arrived in Heidelberg and took the command's reins earlier than anticipated.

Campbell, who handed off his previous command at III Corps and Fort Hood, Texas, last month, will be the last USAREUR commander in Heidelberg before the command moves to Wiesbaden, Germany, in 2013. He will lead the organization primarily from Clay Kaserne in Wiesbaden.

A formal assumption of command ceremony will be conducted after the new year.

Library inspires would-be authors with 'novel' writing challenge

By Susan Huseman

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs Office

Could you write 1,667 words every day for 30 days straight?

That's exactly what Kristin Agcaoili set out to do in November, and at the end of the month she had created a 51,577 word tale about a young girl with magical powers on the run from a government that considers her dangerous.

Agcaoili, a Patch High School junior participating in the 2012 National Novel Writing Month, found time to write between classes, while on the bus to and from school, and late at night.

"I would spend three to four hours a day, if I had time," she said.

Agcaoili is a winner, according to Margi Desmond, organizer of Patch Library's participation in National Novel Writing Month or NaNoWriMo.

NaNoWriMo is an annual Internet-based creative writing project that challenges participants to write the equivalent of a 175-page new novel between Nov. 1 and 30.

Seventy participants took up Patch Library's challenge to get involved with National Novel Writing Month, celebrated annually in November for the past 14 years. The goal: a 50,000 word novel in 30 days.

"You 'win' if you complete 50,000 words," said Desmond, a library technician, Army spouse and published author.

"It's like writing the first rough draft of a novel. You're going to have to polish, revise and edit, but it is a way to get started," she said.

While many stateside libraries offer "write-ins" for authors during NaNoWriMo, the Patch Library went several steps further, offering weekend write-ins and a series of classes for teens and adults that would take fledgling scribes on a journey through publication.

'I made myself a snowball as perfect as can be'

BEMS third-graders Kirsten Burchfield (from left), Sean Ingram, Maryann Putnam and Tyler Farrar team up during lunch recess on Nov. 30 to build a giant snowball. They could not, however, take all the credit. First- and second-graders got the snowball "rolling" in earlier recess periods.

Commander's Column

Command team wishes happy holidays to all

Commentary by Col. John Stack
USAG Stuttgart commander

On behalf of the garrison command team, I'd like to extend my wishes for the happiest of holiday celebrations to each member of the Stuttgart military community.

May you all enjoy the warmth of home, the love of family and the company of good friends.

I ask that you remember those serving downrange and their families — service members far from home, single moms and dads pulling double duty while their service member is away, and children who may be celebrating yet another holiday without a parent.

As you plan your holiday activities, think of our families here in Stuttgart and lend them a helping hand.

Reach out by sharing shopping excursions, tree lighting activities, holiday meals and other family outings.

Remember our single and unaccompanied service members. Make an extra spot at your table and invite them into your home.

While our military members and their families are resilient, being apart during the holidays is especially difficult, and even the smallest gesture may provide tremendous support.

As we wind down the year, I want to thank the Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines and Coast Guardsmen and their families, the civilian and local national employees, and all the volunteers for their dedicated service to the nation and our community.

Each and every one of you has contributed to making the Stuttgart garrison a great place to live, and Petrina and I are blessed to belong to such a caring and supportive community.

Because you all play an important role in our community, as you take time to celebrate, do so safely. Carefully plan your activities and be mindful of the possible hazards during this time of year.

Have fun at holiday parties, but don't drink and drive. The risks associated with driving while impaired are very real and can result in tragic consequences for everyone involved.

Use a designated driver or take a taxi. Cab fare is a minor inconvenience compared with what could happen if you are caught driving intoxicated: loss of rank and pay for military, and stiff fines for civilians, not to mention having your driver's license suspended or revoked.

It's simply not worth the risk.

Take care of your battle buddy and stay vigilant.

Thank you for all you do, and have a happy, blessed and safe holiday season.

Thorns and Roses

Roses to:

- Whoever put up all the Christmas lights — They look great, especially the trees in front of the PX.
- The men who are out early in the morning clearing the sidewalks and roads of snow. Thank you!
- The Stuttgart Theatre Center staff, crew and actors for presenting "Cinderella" on Dec. 8. The show was spectacular for two reasons: The songs brought back good childhood memories, and it was an evening exclusive for families with exceptional family members. A shout out of thanks to the Army Community Service Exception Family Member Program staff, and the special guest appearance by Santa Claus. The children loved it!

Thorns to:

- Those people who are in too much of a hurry to drive carefully around children while they are walking to and from school — Slow down!
- An eatery on Patch Barracks — You've gotten my order (consisting of one basic item) wrong twice in a row, and overcharged me to boot.

Thorns and Roses is about recognizing those who do a good job or make life a little easier. It's also about people who need to be a little more considerate of others.

Donor recruitment drive benefits those in need of marrow transplants

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs Office

While holiday shoppers browsed the aisles of the Panzer Exchange Dec. 8 and 9, they discovered they could give a meaningful gift that wouldn't cost a dime.

Boy Scouts from Troop 154 asked shoppers to sign up to become marrow donors. Seventy-seven people agreed to register through a relatively quick and easy process.

Michael Ervin, a civilian employee assigned to U.S. European Command was happy to do so.

"This is something I've always wanted to do; I just didn't know how," he said, adding, "We were all put on this earth to help one another."

Potential donors were asked to give four oral swabs collected from their cheeks and complete a simple registration form. The results will be added to Defense Department and National Marrow Donor registries.

"If you match with someone, you'll get a call asking if you'd be willing to undergo more tests and possibly donate your bone marrow," said Erick Lopez-Santana, 14, who organized the drive to benefit the Department of Defense Marrow Donor program as part of his Eagle Scout project.

The C.W. Bill Young/DOD Marrow Donor Center will make arrangements for further testing and if a person is found to be an acceptable match, he or she will be asked to consider donating marrow or peripheral blood stem cells for the patient.

The actual donation will be performed at either Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, D.C., the University of Maryland Greenbaum Medical Center in Baltimore, Md., or at Fairfax Pathology Associates in Fairfax, Va., according to the C.W. Bill Young/DOD Marrow Donor Center website.

Medical fees and any travel expenses are paid for by the receiving patient, said Lopez-Santana.

Approximately 30,000 people in the U.S., more than 500 of them associated with the Defense Department, are diagnosed each year with leukemia or other deadly blood diseases, said Lopez-Santana.

We were all put on this earth to help one another.

Michael Ervin
Marrow donor registrant

According to the DOD Marrow Donor Center website, a bone marrow transplant is frequently their only hope. "Because tissue types are inherited and some tissue types are unique to certain racial or ethnic groups, a patient's best chance is within his or her ethnic and racial group. Since 75 percent of the patients in need of a marrow transplant cannot find a match within their own family, a strong national database is essential for identifying potential donors."

On average, one in every 540 members of the National Marrow Donor registry in the U.S. will go on to donate bone marrow or peripheral blood stem cells to a patient, according to the registry's website.

While Lopez-Santana expects the drive's final number to be over 100, he said achieving a specific number was never his objective.

"My main goal is to build awareness in the community of the Marrow Donor Program and hopefully have follow on donor recruitment drives," he said.

If you missed the recruitment drive, you still become part of the marrow registry.

Active duty service members and their dependents, Defense Department civilians, reservists, National Guard and members of the Coast Guard between 18 and 60 and in good general health can request test kits by sending an email to recruitment@ dodmarrow.com. Those not affiliated with the Defense Department can contact the National Marrow Donor Program at <http://marrow.org>.

TSP and Hurricane Sandy

The Thrift Savings Plan has made temporary changes to the financial hardship withdrawal rules for participants affected by Hurricane Sandy. For these withdrawals, documentation requirements, as well as the bar against making new investments for six months after taking a hardship withdrawal, will be waived.

The temporary change allows hardship withdrawals for active employees whose primary home or place of employment is within the designated disaster area and who suffered a personal loss, or for those who will use the money to help certain family members meeting those criteria. The request must specify that it is Hurricane Sandy-related and must be received by Jan. 25.

Specific information on the covered disaster area, eligibility and Form TSP-76 can be found at www.tsp.gov.

Renew exempt tax status

Employees who have a Federal Tax Status 'E' in block 17 of the Leave and Earnings Statement for tax year 2012 will be automatically changed to Federal Tax Status 'F' (pending re-certification of exemption) the first pay period of the 2013 tax/pay year, pay date Jan. 10.

If an employee's tax exempt status is not renewed, the federal tax status will be automatically changed from 'F' to 'Y' (subject to federal tax) for the pay period ending Feb. 9. Federal tax will be withheld on these employees starting in the pay period that ends Feb. 23.

To renew your status, visit www.irs.gov.

Watch out for pickpockets

U.S. Army Europe Office of the Provost Marshal officials warn that the holiday season is a perfect time for thieves and pickpockets.

Most victims are targeted in bars and clubs or in other crowded places, such as buses, train stations and airports. To deter pickpockets, officials recommend that people remain vigilant and not carry large amounts of cash if they can avoid it.

Be aware of distractions such as a stranger asking questions or helping you get on a bus or train. These actions might be staged to allow an accomplice to pick your pocket, purse or backpack.

Officials offer a few more tips for people traveling this holiday season:

Don't advertise that you will be away. Only give the information to people who need to know.

Soldiers living in the barracks should secure their personal belongings in a wall locker.

To make it easier for the police to recover any stolen goods, keep a list of valuables, complete with serial numbers and photos.

For lecturers, Desmond, a member of the Rocky Mountain Chapter of the Mystery Writers of America, reached out to her network of professional crime writers, editors and publishers.

"I asked these people if they'd be willing to Skype with us and every single one said yes, they would be happy to," she said.

Seventy participants — 25 teens and 45 adults — from the Stuttgart military community signed up for the program.

Best-selling stateside authors appeared via Skype to discuss topics such as story plotting, genre, synopsis, narration and dialogue, critiques and rewrites, networking, and researching and pitching to agents.

Expertise was also drawn from the Stuttgart military community.

Kirsten Carlson, an Army spouse and published children's book illustrator, spoke on the business of children's literature.

Margi Desmond, who has published three short stories and more than 100 non-fiction articles, taught a lesson aimed at short story and nonfiction writers, discussing how to market and sell their writing, and get published.

The ultimate goal of every writer is to see their work in print. Desmond said it's a hard road, but it can be done.

"You're going to face rejection. Stephen King, J.K. Rowling ... everyone gets rejected," she said. "It doesn't mean you stink, it means that a publisher didn't think they could sell it."

Desmond said when she announced at a writer's club meeting that she'd received her first rejection letter, she got a round of applause. "Now I was really a member of the club."

That's the traditional route. Then, there's self-publishing, where an author publishes his or her work independent of a publishing house.

Amber Riley, a Navy spouse and self-published fantasy writer, led classes on self publishing, and the critiquing and rewriting process.

The phlebotomy major turned vampire writer said she has always written for her own pleasure, but after finishing her first novel, "The Flash of a Firefly," in 2010, she elected to self-publish so she could hold in her hands what she had worked so hard to produce.

She ended up self-publishing two additional novels for a trilogy.

"Now, it's more than just a hobby. It's something I want to pursue through traditional publishing," she said, adding that she is almost finished with a demonthemed, young adult novel.

Not everyone in the writing program was there to write a novel.

Mike Egley, a civilian who works for U.S. European Command, signed up to learn how to market a 217,000 word fantasy manuscript he penned over the summer.

"I was interested in making contacts, finding out what resources are out there to help me to better craft the story, and find a publisher," he said.

Egley found the help he was looking for, and thanks to what he learned from Amber Riley's self-publishing experience, has selected a self-publishing service and expects to see his book in print as early as January. He's also started a second book.

Based on the success of the NaNoWriMo program, in January the library will begin to offer writing groups for teens and adults.

"It will be a writing club. We'll form critique groups. We'll talk about people's successes and failures — it will be a support group," Margi Desmond said.

Pay attention to your health, be safe this holiday season

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Give the gift of health and safety to yourself and others by following these holiday tips.

1. Wash hands often with soap and clean running water for at least 20 seconds to keep from spreading germs and getting sick.

2. Bundle up to stay dry and warm. Wear appropriate outdoor clothing: layers of light, warm clothing; mittens; hats; scarves; and waterproof boots.

3. Manage stress. Don't overcommit, and prevent holiday anxiety and pressure. Get enough sleep.

4. Don't drink and drive or let others drink and drive. Whenever anyone drives drunk, they put everyone on the road in danger.

5. Be smoke-free. Avoid smoking and secondhand smoke. There is no safe amount of tobacco or secondhand smoke. Breathing even a little secondhand smoke can be dangerous.

6. Fasten seat belts while driving or riding in a motor vehicle. Use a seat belt on every trip, no matter how short the trip. Always buckle children in the car using child safety or booster seats, or seat belts, according to their height, weight and age.

7. Get exams and screenings. Ask what exams you need and when to get them. Update your personal and family history.

8. Get your vaccinations, which help prevent diseases and save lives.

9. Monitor the children. Keep potentially dangerous toys, food, drinks, household items and other objects out of kids' reach. Dress warmly for outdoor activities. Develop and reinforce rules about acceptable and safe behaviors, including electronic media.

10. Practice fire safety. Most residential fires occur during the winter months, so never leave fireplaces, space heaters, stoves or candles unattended. Have an emergency plan and practice it regularly.

11. Prepare food safely. Remember these simple steps: wash hands and surfaces often, avoid cross-contamination, cook foods to proper temperatures and refrigerate promptly.

12. Eat healthy, and get moving. Eat fruits and vegetables. Limit portion sizes and foods high in fat, salt and sugar. Be active for at least 2.5 hours a week and help kids and teens be active for at least one hour a day.

Holiday Safety: Chestnuts roasting on an open fire could burn your house down

Christmas should be a time of joy and celebration, not sorrow. To ensure a safe and happy holiday season, here are a few things to keep in mind:

Keep candles away from walls and drapes, and avoid using them in decorations or displays. Watch for dripping wax. Keep candles away from air vents or open windows where the flame can be fanned and ignite nearby flammables.

Check electric Christmas lights for frayed or damaged wires or loose connections. Never leave lights on unattended. Always unplug lights before leaving the house and do not leave them on while sleeping.

If buying a live tree, choose a fresh one without shedding needles. Water the tree daily. Do not place the tree near a source of heat such as a radiator. Try to place the tree near an outlet so that an extension cord is not needed for electric tree lights. If you use an artificial tree, make sure it is fire resistant.

BEMS celebrates National Blue Ribbon award

By Lourdes Fernandez
Special to The Citizen

Böblingen Elementary/Middle School officially unveiled its National Blue Ribbon School award Dec. 6.

While Department of Defense Education Activity officials announced the win in September, the award was not presented to the school until Nov. 12 in Washington, D.C.

BEMS officials elected to publicly celebrate the award in conjunction with a December academic awards assembly.

The school gathered Dec. 6 to commemorate the occasion with the unveiling of the National Blue Ribbon School flag and plaque.

"We would not have been able to win this award without the great work you guys do every day. It's all because of you. Congratulations," BEMS Principal Dale Moore told fourth- and fifth-graders, staff, teachers and parents during the first of two assemblies.

This year, BEMS was one of 314 schools to receive the award. Two other DoDEA schools, SHAPE Elementary School in Mons, Belgium, and Charles Turner Joy Elementary/Middle School in Chinhae, South Korea, also received the award.

The schools will serve as models for other schools across the nation.

The award honors public and private schools based on their overall academic excellence or for their progress toward significantly improving student academic achievement levels, according to the U.S. Department of Education website.

BEMS received the award as an exemplary high performing school, according to Moore.

It is a coveted award. "Less than 1 percent of schools are recognized each year," Moore said. In fact, only 7,000 schools have been awarded a National Blue Ribbon award in the last 30 years.

Moore and Teresa Senna, a BEMS kindergarten teacher, traveled to Washington, D.C., to attend an awards luncheon presided over by U.S. Secretary of Education Arne Duncan.

"The ceremony was phenomenal," said Senna, adding that she "felt honored to represent the school at the event."

Senna, a teacher for over 23 years, said she enjoyed attending the ceremony because it gave her a chance "to meet people from across the U.S. who are all focused on education and children."

For Jane Bernasconi, a Parent Teacher Association volunteer and BEMS parent, the award "recognizes the dedication and hard work not only of the faculty and staff, but also of the community at large."

The PTA "works closely with the school and responds to the teachers and administrative needs and requests," said Bernasconi.

In the award application, school officials paid homage to the many programs and activities supported by the PTA, writing that the school enjoyed "amazing support" through the organization.

"The award gives the school bragging rights," said Moore, adding that there was "no way that we could have

Bully prevention: the role of the bystander

Research shows that 85 percent of bullying takes place in front of other children.

Research also shows that when student bystanders intervene correctly, bullying will stop 57 percent of the time and within 10 seconds.

Chances are your child has probably played the role of a bystander at some point.

Your child may have stood quietly by, looked away, or actively encouraged or joined in to become a part of a group who chose to cause harm to another.

Our goal in the Stuttgart military community schools and in Child, Youth and School Services is to teach children how to become active bystanders — those who have the power to reduce the audience that a bully craves, mobilize the compassion of witnesses to step in, support the target and to be a positive influence in curbing a bullying episode.

Bully prevention requires a community-wide effort, and we encourage you to contact us to get involved in learning more and contributing to a strong, compassionate community culture.

Restrictions to incoming mail

In addition to the military's guidelines, each country has its own customs regulations regarding incoming mail.

German regulations are about to get tighter.

On Jan. 1, in accordance with German law, an "E" restriction will be added to Army Post Office ZIP codes in Germany.

The "E" restriction prohibits the importation of prescription and non-prescription medicines, vitamins and supplements.

Military Postal Service and Intra-Theater Delivery Service items mailed within Germany will be exempt from the restriction.

Mailings between authorized agencies (hospitals and pharmacies) will also be exempt from this restriction.

Their official APO ZIP codes will not have the "E" restriction.

Hold the salt, please

While it's convenient, there are drawbacks.

Ecosystems adjacent to salted roads are often damaged by the contact. Plants are damaged or killed, water and soil is contaminated, and in severe cases, wildlife can become ill or die. Salt can also cause serious damage to lawns and gardens.

What you can do

- Use as little de-icing salt as possible.
- Using a small amount of de-icer before a snowfall helps reduce the amount of product needed.
- On dry days, sweep up loose salt to prevent the excess being washed into the environment.

- Try sand or kitty litter.
- Use elbow grease — shovel quickly, use a broom and something to break any ice.

In Germany, there are several re-usable salt-free abrasives available. For a list of manufacturers, visit www.blauer-engel.de/en/index.php.

Child care providers urged to register with FCC

USAG Stuttgart Child, Youth and School Services

Child, Youth and School Services sponsors a Family Child Care amnesty program each year, allowing people who provide unauthorized child care to register with the Family Child Care program without penalty.

The amnesty period this year runs from Nov. 26 to Dec. 31.

Occasional child care between friends and neighbors is not regulated by the Department of the Army or garrison policy.

Regular care, however, is governed by Army Regulation 608-10.

According to the regulation, unauthorized child care is caring for a child in government quarters other than the child's home for more than 10 child care hours a week on a regular basis.

A neighbor who cares for a child less than ten hours a week on a consistent basis or temporarily in excess of 10 hours, such as for a temporary duty, overnight or a weekend, is not violating the regulation.

The same holds true for a child who receives care from a babysitter or nanny in the child's home. Such care is considered unauthorized, though, when that same person provides care to any children other than the occupants of the apartment for more than ten hours a week on a consistent basis.

CYS Services does not assume the non-certified caregiver is providing bad care; however, child care provided on an installation that exceeds the "10 hours rule" must be approved by the garrison commander to avoid legal recourse.

Consequences to the sponsor of the non-certified care giver may include termination of government quarters, financial liability for a child's injury or death, as well as German and U.S. tax liability.

Any caregiver who contacts FCC during the amnesty period may be allowed to continue caring for the children while actively completing the certification process.

The certification process includes registration of the caregiver and all children under care, an inspection of quarters by fire, safety and preventive medicine, background checks and valuable training. The certification process is free to qualified applicants.

Certified FCC providers receive financial benefits such as tax-free income, eligibility for no-cost liability insurance and partial reimbursement for start-up costs and food.

A certified provider also has access to equipment and resource materials through the FCC lending library.

Professional benefits include ongoing training and assistance from the FCC staff who are dedicated to helping each FCC provider succeed.

An additional benefit is that being a FCC provider is a career that transfers with few additional requirements from post to post.

If you are caring for children in quarters other than their home for more than 10 hours a week on a regular basis, take advantage of the amnesty period.

Become a Family Child Care professional and receive the benefits and recognition for the valuable service you provide.

For more information, contact Genevieve Nystrom, FCC Director, at 430-7464/civ. 0711-680-7464. Additional information concerning the FCC Program may be found on the USAG Stuttgart FCC profile at www.ArmyFCC.com.

Are you providing child care in your home?

Are you a CERTIFIED Army Family Child Care Provider?

I just found out my caregiver is not authorized to take care of me in her home!

Yes! Caregivers living in government quarters and RCI housing must be Army certified before caring for children.

These requirements apply to anyone caring for children in their home on a regular basis.

How can I help my caregiver become Army FCC certified?

I don't want to lose my caregiver! What's in it for me and my provider?

Have your parents or caregiver contact the Garrison CYS Family Child Care office.

You will be cared for by a certified provider who has training, extensive background clearance checks, & who is frequently monitored. Your provider has access to free loan of equipment & materials, USDA Food program reimbursement, financial incentives, and a built in support network!

U.S. Army Child, Youth & School Services

Become FCC Certified ... It's the right thing to do!

ARMY STRONG.

Care givers who are providing unauthorized child care in government quarters have until Dec. 31 to register to become certified Family Child Care providers with U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart's Child, Youth and School Services. Certified FCC providers receive financial benefits such as tax-free income, eligibility for no-cost liability insurance and partial reimbursement for start-up costs and food. Non-certified care givers and their sponsors may have their government quarters terminated, be financially liable for a child's injury or death, as well as German and U.S. taxes.

Are you prepared for winter?

Weather forecasters may be hesitant to make predictions for the 2012-2013 winter season in Germany, but one thing they can agree upon is that it will be cold, there will be snow and ice, and power outages.

Before winter storms and extreme cold weather hits, here's what you can do to prepare.

Be informed

Familiarize yourself with winter weather terms: freezing rain, winter weather advisory, winter storm watch, blizzard warning, etc.

Go to www.stuttgart.army.mil and click on the "Weather" link for the local weather forecast and road conditions.

Esslingen celebrates holidays in medieval style

By Tracy Moran
Special to The Citizen

Bring your taler and a taste for Met to Esslingen this holiday season and be transported back to the Middle Ages. In modern terms, that means bring some money and a thirst for honey wine whilst Christmas shopping in the open air.

Esslingen's medieval architecture, with its stunning Gothic church steeples, Altes Rathaus, and the oldest row of half-timbered homes in Germany, offers the perfect stage for the wool-garbed traders and craftspeople who turn the city streets into a medieval Christmas spectacle every year.

The town's tourist office decided to launch the medieval market 16 years ago, taking advantage of the town's historic stage.

With the "wonderful heritage of old houses, we saw a chance to create something unique involving the old buildings of Esslingen as a stage for the medieval market," said Anja Scheurenbrand, a press officer at Esslinger Stadtmarketing and Tourismus.

Two markets run concurrently in Esslingen, with contemporary stalls in the town's market place next to the imposing St. Dionysius Church, and a bigger medieval market sprawling throughout the heart of the old town.

In the market place, visitors can shop for food, wooden toys, jewelry, wool socks, hats, scarves and Swabian wares.

In the medieval portion, shoppers may find themselves captivated by the wooden stalls, animal skinned rooftops and the traders hard at work, presenting the ancient crafts of pottery making, leather working, candle making, glass blowing, weaving, ironmongery, calligraphy and much more.

In all, some 180 stalls offer medieval and modern products for three weeks running up to Christmas, providing an interactive and enchanting experience for approximately one million visitors.

If handcrafted products are not on your shopping list, have no fear — you can still enjoy the atmosphere, which is always lively.

Actors, dancers, jugglers, jesters and fire dancers wander the cobblestone alleys in costumes, entertaining the crowds each day. The troupe puts on a mesmerizing fire show at the close of day in the Hafenmarkt at 7:30 p.m.

More than 500 concerts are offered on the market stages and throughout the town in churches, theaters and various other venues, providing a wonderful cultural experience.

Children will love dipping candles and riding the medieval Ferris wheel. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, they can learn about the history of the jester, and they can bake at one of two bakeries.

Adults can enjoy arcade games, archery, seeing all the trades practiced before their eyes and even learn how to sew a medieval costume.

If you visit on Thursday, Dec. 20, be sure to wait until the market closes so you can participate in the annual Fackelumzug, where hundreds march with lit torches from the Altes Rathaus up along the ancient town wall up to the fortress, where acrobats and dancers will get the crowds moving and singing.

The fiery procession offers a stunning finale to the market each year.

Esslingen's Christmas market runs through Dec. 21, with stalls opening every day at 11 a.m. and closing at 8:30 p.m.

For more information on the Esslingen Christmas markets, visit the Esslingen Tourist Information website at www.esslingen-tourist.de.

Wild Things

October 31st found groups of "Wild Things" roaming the halls of Böblingen Elementary Middle School! These kindergarten students made "Wild Thing" masks and vests and paraded through the school's hallways growling and roaring! After giving us all a terrible fright, the "Wind Things" returned to their class rooms for treats and a wild rumpus. We were very fortunate that our "Wild Things" were on the leashes of our Böblingen Elementary Middle School kindergarten teachers Ms. Erickson and Ms. L'Esperance.

Students at Patch Elementary School celebrate Red Ribbon Week by dressing up in their favorite sports uniforms for the theme Let's Move - Sports and Exercise Keep Us Healthy!

Veterans Day

The music department at Patch High School held its annual Winter Holiday Concert, December 10th. One of the showcases was a combined performance by the Jazz Band and Harmony Express.

Charlotte's Web

Book and Tapestry Sale

Veterans Day Assembly
